Truman Nickel

I HEARD THIS today from a Hope motor agency:

Nunn-McDowell had an old negro customer who some time back bought a pickup truck for his farm. There was a balance-note of a couple hundred dollars which falls due several months from now—but the negro came in this week and said: "Boss, ah doubts ah'll be able to pay all of it."

"This being a sharp departure from his credit record, the boys asked him what the trouble was."

"It's my crop financing. Ah aint got it no more. Ah went to the government, just like ah allus do—but the men said 'No.' Ah said, 'But ah allus pays you every dime ah owes.' And they says, 'That's the trouble — we aint a-loanin' no money to nobody that pays it back.'"

THE ASSOCIATED Press carries on its wires a long analysis of the effect the proposed new federal income tax increase will have on different levels of the nation's economy.

What the administration proposes is a 4 per cent increase in everybody's tax — which causes (7) to reach a startling conclusion:

"It's equally correct that (1) the low-paid fare worse, (2) the high-income fare worse, or (3) everybody fares the same, depending upon your figuring angle."

In plain language, the politicians have us outfigured—and all of us are stuck with the bill. We don't begrudge a dime that's appropriated for the armed forces and the war effort. But we do resent the administration's attempt to inflate the civilian budget, and its unashamed effort to get non-defense money bills through congress on the grounds that they represent "indirect" war effort. The current tax proposal is going to boil a lot of water out of those shoddy kettles.

THE MAN ASKED me, "Have you seen a Truman nickel?" and when I shook my head, guess what? He pulled out a dollar bill.

Unclaimed Body to Be Buried in Potter's Field

The unclaimed body of a man only tentatively identified will be buried in Potter's Field here tomorrow, according to the funeral home, said today.

January 27, city police picked up a man near a hobo camp, south on the L&A Railway and took him to a local hospital, where he died the following day.

A check with the FBI listed his name as John Murphy or James Miller, both believed aliases. The government record showed he was an ex-convict, having served 5 years in Kansas State Prison for robbery and that he was a deserter from the army.

Local officers said he had been coming to Hope during the winter for several years. All efforts to find relatives have failed.

Farm Magazine Names Frasier Man of Year

Little Rock, Feb. 7 — (AP) — The Progressive Farmer magazine has selected Waldo Frasier, the executive secretary of the Arkansas farm bureau federation, as its 1950 "man of the year in service to agriculture in Arkansas."

The honor was announced in the magazine's February issue. The federation had 65 members when Frasier became executive secretary in 1935. By last year the membership has grown to 40,800.

Mother of Local Woman Succumbs

Mrs. T. C. Thornton's mother, Mrs. Dora Smith of Hot Springs, died today at the St. Joseph Hospital in Hot Springs.

Funeral services will be held at 10:30 a.m. Friday at Bono. The Gregg Funeral Home of Jonesboro will be in charge.

Watch Label Date on Mail Subscriptions

Subscribers who receive The Star by mail are urged to check the expiration date on their label, especially after renewing the subscription. The label should show the new expiration date within two or three days — never more than a week — after the office is paid. For example:

Your old expiration date is February 15, 1951. The old label would read 2-15-51. You pay for another year — and in a few days the label should read 2-15-52. Unless the label is correct you run the risk of accidental stoppage of the paper, because billings and cut-offs are made from the label dates. The books, of course, would eventually correct any mistakes — but a correct label date is your insurance against missing some copies because of a typographical error.

New Plaswood Factory Is Booming

Southern Plaswood corporation, Hope's new pressed-board industry in the former Southwestern Proving Ground reservation, is operating on two shifts and will add a third as soon as it is assured of a sufficient supply of chemicals, President Guy E. Basye said today.

Southern Plaswood, an organization of more than 40 lumbermen and wood processors throughout southwest Arkansas, took over the never-used facilities of Cobwood, Inc., including its giant hydraulic press — and is manufacturing a patented board with an established market demand.

It was disclosed today that Southern Plaswood has one customer who alone wants one million board feet shipped this month. With everything running right the present installation could produce a little more than this in a month working three shifts.

Expansion of the local plant is likely just as soon as more chemicals and equipment become available. Speaking for all the stockholders, who represent many lumber and woodworking interests throughout this section, Mr. Basye said today:

"We feel sure that as the years come and go Southern Plaswood will mean a great deal to Hope and southwest Arkansas. The possibilities of items that may be manufactured under Plaswood formulae are almost unlimited. We could sell several times the output of our plant without any trouble."

"We wish that we could invite the public to inspect the plant, but it is the result of quite a number of years of trial and error and expensive experiments, and the board of directors feel that it is not in the best interest of the company to make the results of our labor along this line a matter of public information."

Government to Control All Slaughter Pens

Washington, Feb. 7 — (AP) — The government prepared today to issue a slaughter control aimed at preventing black markets and big-city meat famines under price control.

The office of price stabilization (OPS) was putting finishing touches on an order licensing all slaughterers and giving them a quota of animals to kill. The action is intended to discourage the sort of behind-the-barn slaughtering which fed black markets in World War II and contributed to the abandonment of OPA.

At the same time, officials were apparently ready to announce settlements of two jurisdictional disputes among the new alphabetic agencies. Government sources told reporters these decisions are near:

1. The justice department will handle all court enforcement actions against price violators, including criminal cases, injunctions and civil suits for treble damages. OPS had protested, claiming price control would be handicapped unless OPS itself handled the civil cases. Price Director

Council Cold to Proposal by Bell That City Withdraw Protest to Rate Increase

The city council in regular session last night was "cold" toward a request from Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. that the City of Hope withdraw its protest to a telephone rate increase.

The proposal was presented by Jerry Poe, district manager of the telephone company. He asked the city to withdraw from the list of cities making further appeal of protest.

Arkansas Public Service Commission recently granted the Telephone Company a statewide $3,805,500 increase of a proposed $4,600,000 hike over the protest of many Arkansas cities.

The council simply took no action. Civilian Defense

Hope Defense Director Donald Dill presented a resolution which would allow the setting up of different organizations and committees to carry out the Hope defense program. This was unanimously approved by the council.

Fred Luck's application to build a service station on East Third near the Highway 97 and No. 4, intersection, was approved.

No action was taken on a request by Ole Olson for a refund of milk taxes in the sum of $260.48, paid to the city by local dairymen. The issue will be decided later.

Hempstead's State Aid Share Is $49,876

Little Rock, Feb. 7 (AP) — The state education department yesterday announced an allocation of $2,095,821 in teacher salary aid to the counties.

At the same time there was an allocation of $472,723 in transportation aid.

Hempstead County's share was $40,651 in teachers aid and $9,025 for transportation.

Czechs to Join Russia, Blame U. S.

Lake Success, Feb. 7 — (AP) — Czechoslovakia is scheduled to add her voice today to the Communist chorus changing the United States with aggression against Red China.

Russia, Poland, White Russia and the Soviet Ukraine blasted alleged American imperialism in the 60-nation political committee yesterday.

Czechoslovakia is the last speaker on the list. A lopsided vote throwing out the charges is expected in the committee later today.

Russia's Semyon K. Tsarapkin submitted a resolution asking the committee to "condemn these illegal acts by the government of the United States and place on the said government full responsibility for them, for all damages caused to the People's Republic of China and for any consequences which may ensue from such acts."

The "illegal acts" referred to 328 purported violations of Chinese territory by American planes, during which 16 persons were reportedly killed and 15 wounded. The committee also charged that a "destroyer boarded and searched a Chinese Communist merchant vessel."

The main point of the indictment, however, was a charge that the U. S. is converting Formosa into a military base rather than turning it over to its "legal government."

Boy Scouts to Take Over City on February 9

Last night the City Council gave the Boy Scouts of Hope permission to take over police duties of the city between the hours of 1:30 and 5 p. m. on Friday, February 9.

Kinard Young, representing the Scouts, assured the group that the undertaking would be well supervised and somewhat limited.

Following a discussion Scouts were granted permission to list all automobiles not displaying city tags, assess fines for overparking, incorrect parking, jay-walking and other minor offenses.

This has been a yearly undertaking of the Scouts of Hope and all money derived goes into the general scout fund.

C of C Board Still Picking Committees

The Board of Directors of the Hope Chamber of Commerce met at the Barclay Hotel last night to begin formation of committees for work for the new Chamber of Commerce year. The names for the complete membership of each committee will be released Monday February 12th.

Co., which is building an office and clinic for Dr. J. G. Martindale on the old Haynes Store lot on South Main, to close an alley during construction, was authorized the VFW to pick up and store waste paper at the city dump ground during the emergency.

No action was taken on a request from Foster-Ellis and Sam Roach Insurance representatives that the city's insurance be equally divided between five city agencies.

The group approved a plat by the city engineer of the unplatted part of Rose Hill Cemetery and set the following fees for lots: $50 for a full lot; $25 for a half lot; and $5 for a single grave sites located in the northeast corner of the cemetery.

Street Extended
An ordinance was passed calling for the extension of East 4th Street behind the McRae property, east on Third. This action followed a request from property owners in the section that the street be opened.

The council instructed the Water and Light Plant to build a line about a half mile, north on Highway 29, in the Proving Ground to what is known as the Stroud property, providing $350 be put up by property owners. This would be reverted to them on monthly bills.

Tank Units Join, Many Chinese Trapped, Killed

Tokyo, Feb. 7 — (AP) — Allied ground forces smashed forward today with three powerful tank columns to the last hills guarding the plains of shattered Seoul.

American doughboys with flashing bayonets drove Reds from vital heights at one point.

The Chinese and Korean Reds were digging in for a new stand on the ridges just south of Seoul. At their backs was the Han river, still an ice-covered way of retreat for the Reds but now on the verge of thawing.

On the central front, United Nations forces with South Koreans in the lead pushed northward toward the old Parallel 38 border.

On the east coast, South Korean forces secured high ground three miles east and west and five miles south of Kangnung, a coastal road town 17 miles south of 38. Allied naval power blasted the Reds in Kangnung itself.

The whole complexion of the war had shifted once again. The Allies had regained the initiative in their 14-day-old "limited" offensive and the Reds were giving ground.

Allied artillery was in position to pour shells into the old Korean capital of Seoul, abandoned Jan. 4 for the second time in the Korean war by anti-Communist forces.

Three tank task forces prowled the southern approaches to Seoul again Wednesday for the third straight day, shooting up Red rear guards wherever they choose to make a stand.

Slowdown on Taxes, Budget Cut, Proposed

Washington, Feb. 7 — (AP) — Congressional economy advocates worked today for a slowdown on new taxes in an effort to force substantial cuts in President Truman's $71,600,000,000 budget.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed that the senate and house tax writing committees are making a joint study of whether to handle the budget-balancing $16,500,000,000 in new revenue, which President Truman wants in two bills, as he recommended, or in one package.

Chairman Doughton (D-NC) of the house ways and means committee said he had discussed the matter with Senator George (D-Ga), chairman of the senate finance committee. No decision has been reached and none is probable for some time, Doughton told reporters.

He said he has not made up his own mind and has not discussed with his committee how new tax legislation should be handled.

Senator Byrd (D-Va) told a reporter he hopes congress will have a chance to vote on nearly all of the regular government money bills for the year beginning July 1 before it makes any final decisions on raising taxes.

Mr. Truman has asked for an immediate $10,000,000,000 in new taxes and has said congress should find an additional $6,500,000,000 or so later, "enough to balance his budget."

Byrd contended, on the other hand, that there might not be any necessity for such a large tax boost if congress can whittle down spending. He has proposed a $9,000,000,000 cut in the budget to put non-defense outlays on what he calls an "austerity" level.

"I think that if congress delays acting on taxes we will have a much better chance of cutting expenditures," the Virginia senator said.

"When the money bills are before the senate, I think every senator will be reminded that he has the choice between cutting down on the outgo or raising taxes to unprecedented levels. That should make it easier to get the votes for economy."

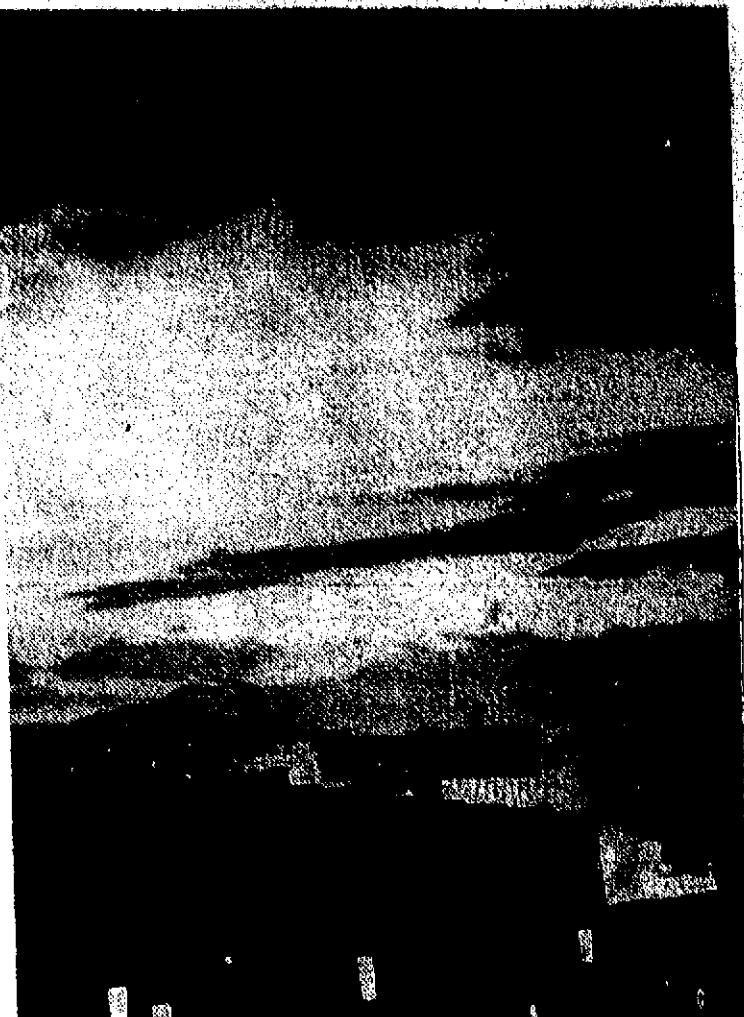

Police Are Probing Two Burglaries in This Section

Special state police investigator J. H. Porterfield said today he was investigating two robberies in this section—a school burglary at Prescott and a store at Okolona. Both occurred late last week.

At Prescott High school the burglars got from $50 to $100 in silver, the school lunchroom money, from a drawer in the office. It was the second robbery of the school within recent months.

At Okolona the safe from the Cecil Osborn store was carried off along with $400 from a cash register. The safe contained important papers several government checks and over $3000 in savings bonds.

Mr. Porterfield said so far little progress had been made in the investigation but believed the two jobs were linked.

Stock Law Modification Gets Committee Approval; House Against State Highway Audit

Little Rock, Feb. 7 — (AP) — The senate judiciary committee last night approved modification of the inflated state-wide livestock law to make it apply only on paved highways and within municipalities.

The law was adopted by popular vote at the 1950 general election to require owners to keep their livestock from running at large on roads and highways.

After a public hearing the committee recommended that the senate following the house in passage of house bill 3 by Rep. Carroll Hollenworth of Bradley to remove "country" roads from provisions of the act.

The committee also recommended passage of senate bill 157 by Sen. Donald Poe of Waldron to "blanket in" as registered pharmacists those persons with 10 years experience in filling prescriptions under supervision of a registered pharmacist.

The group qualified its approval, however it would amend the bill to provide for a "practical" examination by the state board of pharmacy.

The house judiciary committee recommended passage of a govt. bill 144 by Rep. John W. Murphy of Washington county, to eliminate a provision in the state labor laws requiring employers to pay women time and a half for overtime after eight hours work.

Chief proponents of the change were representative of northwest Arkansas canners.

Little Rock, Feb. 7 — (AP) — The Arkansas house has refused to join the senate in passing an administration-opposed bill calling for an audit of the state highway department.

Governor McMath called the bill a move to a political audit.

Another bill (HB259) for an audit still is pending and McMath says he will push for its passage.

The proposal rejected yesterday was senate bill 18 by Sen. Grover

Local Sorority Sponsors County Heart Campaign

Plastic Hearts are helping human hearts. Red, heart-shaped, plastic coin collectors are being distributed to store counters and other public locations in preparation for the 1951 Heart Fund campaign of the Beta Sigma Phi sorority, opened February 1. These attractive coin collectors are being placed within arm's reach of possible contributors.

Bettye Babb, chairman of the local campaign, estimated that a good portion of the goal will be raised through the Plastic Hearts as promotional symbols of the campaign as well as money-raising devices.

The major share of funds collected will remain in the community to go to the American Heart Association, of which Beta Sigma Phi is an affiliate, to aid in the national scientific research, education, and public health programs.

Death Toll in Train Crash Mounts to 80

Woodbridge, N. J., Feb. 7 — (AP) — A commuter-crowded Pennsylvania railroad train careened wildly atop a temporary overpass last night, jumped the track and plummeted 20 feet down a steep embankment. Eighty persons were killed and about 500 injured.

Workers claved tirelessly through the wreckage well past dawn today and authorities said possibly six to ten more bodies still may be found in the crumpled mass of steel and debris.

It was the third big wreck in the Metropolitan New York area in less than a year. The three accidents took a total of nearly 200 lives.

The rush-hour crackup was the worst in the nation since 1943 when a like number of persons perished in a Pennsylvania railroad wreck outside Philadelphia.

If the death toll mounts, it will be the most disastrous since 1918 when 115 died in Nashville, Tenn. The 11-car train, "The Breaker", bounced off the tracks with a roar and tumbled down into a twisted mass of deadly wreckage.

It was loaded to the brims with commuters — mostly from New York — on their way to Red Bank, Long Branch, Asbury Park and other communities on New Jersey's wealthy north shore.

Engineer Joseph H. Fitzsimmons, a veteran of 33 accident-free years on the road, blamed the overcrowded coaches and the new trouble for the tragedy.

"The moment my engine passed over the trestle and lurched sharply I felt the rest of the cars would never make it."

"I hit the trestle at about 35 miles per hour and the speed of the train certainly couldn't be blamed for the crash. When I started to sway, I applied the brakes, but it appeared as though the train was going to jump the tracks."

Passengers and at least one railroad detective — who did not give his name — disagreed with the engineer on the speed of the train. The detective said it was going at top speed when it hit the trestle.

The Pennsylvania, in a statement, said a 25-mile an hour speed limit was in effect on the new

Current Freeze Kills Peaches at Experiment Station

The current freeze killed from 40 to 95 percent of the peach buds the University of Arkansas Experiment Station announced today. Alabama suffered up to 95 per cent. Other varieties at the station suffered from 85 to 95 per cent loss, it was announced.

Last night the temperature went to a low of 29 degrees while the high was 55. Rainfall during the 24-hour period ending at 7 a.m. was nearly a half inch — .46.

Despite the rain which was fairly steady throughout yesterday morning, spots of snow and ice could still be seen on housetops.

The Legendary Sense of Humor Among U. S. Troops Is Still Alive on Korean Front

By JIM BECKER (For Hal Bayle)

Sometime for me was a few weeks ago. Here are some impressions the war has made on this newcomer — impressions that it might have made on you if you were seeing it for the first time.

The legendary sense of humor is alive in this nondescript country, probably the only spot in the world where it can be muddy and dusty at the same time.

A frontline infantryman was stalled behind a mudbank. A lieutenant was stalled in the next mudslide.

"The next time we have visitors I want you to shave, sergeant," grinned the lieutenant. The sergeant flipped the black, stubble that nearly hid his face. "You are supposed to act my example, lieutenant," he drawled at the officer whose beard was even blacker.

Just sleeping, eating, keeping clean — functions which you take for granted — are ordeals to the combat soldier. He sleeps in a hole in the ground — it's easier to dig now that the ground is thawing out "but sure is muddy" — he eats his canned rations any way he can.

"Some jack left the can open and out of every ration that our company got today and we had to open the cans with bayonets!" — and almost never washes — "It's hardly worth the trouble heating the water if you can find any."

The incredible destruction of war is everywhere as opposing armies struggle over the same ground for the third time.

Almost all civilians have left the battle area. The few remaining are not interested in the war. They are not interested in the war. They are not interested in the war.

Owners of small businesses have disappeared, leaving their investment in machinery and equipment behind.

Fires and bombs and shells have struck again and again and you can see the blackened ruins of the equipment through smoke holes in the walls of the houses.

In one house there is a mudbank. A lieutenant was stalled in the next mudslide.

"The next time we have visitors I want you to shave, sergeant," grinned the lieutenant. The sergeant flipped the black, stubble that nearly hid his face. "You are supposed to act my example, lieutenant," he drawled at the officer whose beard was even blacker.

printing press that has been burned and returned into uselessness. Type is scattered over the floor amid piles of filthy plaster. You can imagine the mood of utter despair and hopelessness of the owner if he returns and sees the ruins of his livelihood.

Clean-cut young American men are dying here daily. Other young Americans have learned to accept the fact and go on about their business — which is killing Chinese.

"Sometimes you don't even get a chance to learn the names of the new guys before they get it," said a GI.

If it were not for the almost ceaseless thunder of Allied artillery, a casual visitor to a frontline headquarters might never guess that there was a war on. Trucks the knowledge that no enemy planes will come. Many trucks and jeeps sport gaily colored panels to identify them to friendly planes.

Fighting GIs gather around a fire only a few thousand yards from the front. "It must be tough on the Chinese," said one soldier squatting beside a roaring blaze. "They cannot light fires to get warm. They just have to sit and take it. If those planes or those artillery spotters saw a wisp of smoke they would have a nice target."

The oft-told tale of army waste and inefficiency may be true to some extent in rear sections but that is not true here. The vehicles have been stripped of every usable part. Nothing is wasted. Every scrap of the war effort is scraped out of the can of mass.

GI's and oil are guarded by military police. A single misplaced stick and a woman underwear are issued as if each contained a hundred dollar bill. Vehicles are nursed like an only child.

Although death and wounds are the star boards, these men seem to talk about them. A GI will end a lively conversation by discussing the flu. The next moment he is discussing the flu.

When you ask a GI how he feels, he will tell you he feels fine. When you ask a GI how he feels, he will tell you he feels fine.

When you ask a GI how he feels, he will tell you he feels fine. When you ask a GI how he feels, he will tell you he feels fine.

Truman Will Look Into Cotton Issues

Washington, Feb. 7 — (AP) — The government gambling with the cotton's future cotton supplies is tempting to control the price of this important fiber crop.

That's the question back controversy between cotton lawmakers and the government over its recent price freeze.

This squabble was carried to the President yesterday by a group of southern senators. They told the President promised to look into the matter.

The lawmakers argue that price control action will disrupt cotton production at a time when the nation's supplies are short

At this juncture the democracies face the balance of power. And the balance of power is dependent on economic power. It follows that economic power is the keystone of the structure.

Now eastern Europe contains a large slice of the world's economic strength. It is, all told, so great that Russia could gain possession of the balance of power would be tremendously altered. Distribute Burden Equally ECA Warns

Washington, Feb. 6. —(AP)—The economic cooperation administration (ECA) today warned Western European governments to distribute the burden of reconstruction "fairly among all income groups to maintain popular support for the West's defense effort."

"If the cost of reconstruction is to be borne by the economic gains of the past two and one-half years, reconstruction may become highly unpopular in Western Europe," it said.

The Marshall plan agency gave this advice to the 16 participating governments in its 10th quarterly report to congress on recovery in Western Europe, President Truman presented the summary, which covered the three months ending last Sept. 30, without comment of his own.

Edgemoor "have no quarrel" with the need to reform and rearm quickly," the report said, and it added:

"Yes, there is real fear that reconstruction may be carried out at the expense of living standards in lower-income groups."

United States has given to western Europe under the Marshall plan, it said, has accomplished "the most difficult part of the reconstruction task."

The report said, however, that the imperative need for reconstruction has boosted prices since the Korean aggression and there have been "spectacular increases in world prices of some commodities."

To preserve the "remarkable gains" achieved through the Marshall plan, it said Western European governments must "take prompt and effective action" to adjust their national economic policies.

The war crisis has emphasized the importance of Western Europe for regarding its resources as a single pool," it said.

The report added it is "imperative" that the measures adopted by European governments be "consistent and complementary and not return to the dangers of competitive stockpiling and disguised protectionism."

Denver Police Nab 3 State Escapees

Denver, Feb. 6. —(AP)—Denver police today nabbed three fugitives from the Arkansas State hospital. A fourth man eluded officers.

Detective Capt. Joseph Coogan said the three arrested were Herbert Harrison, 25; James Adams, 25; and Floyd Qualls, 22. Each was arrested in a different section of the city.

Police came upon a fourth man, believed to be an escaped inmate, in a residential area, but he got away.

Coogan said those arrested were among 12 men breaking out of the hospital at Little Rock in a snowstorm Jan. 31 after beating three attendants.

The trio told him two other fugitives parted company with them at Kansas City. Coogan said the men told of stealing an automobile in Little Rock and driving to Denver this week. They said the car soon after arriving.

The break from the hospital followed a fight in a hospital washroom. The attendants, trying to subdue the trouble makers, were overpowered and beaten and their keys taken.

Four of the escaped men previously were captured in Little Rock.

One of them, Arnold Michael Black, said he had gone to Kansas City with Adams, Harrison, Qualls and four others before parting with them to return to Little Rock, his home.

Old Law May Define Purchases

Little Rock, Feb. 7. —(AP)—State Purchasing Agent Carl F. Parker says proposed legislation is being drafted to define coverage of a 1943 act barring a member of a state department from being "financially interested" in purchases made by any department.

Attorney General Ike Murry in an opinion last week said the act had a broad application. It relates to all departments, not just the one of which a particularly officer or employee is a member, he said.

Governor McMath said Murry's ruling was a "new" interpretation, but added:

"Whatever the law is, we are going to abide by it."
